In the eighth inning of a very fast game of ball at Broad Street Park yesterday afternoon Richmond tied Rosnoke

Inning, when Pitcher-Ompire Lavin said that it was too dark to play any longer and called the game. Another double-header is the consequence, and the two games in one day will likely be played on the Richmond diamond. Eckstone for the Lawmakers outpitched Smith for Roanoke and hoodoo was hovering over the field, and he could only save defeat by tying up things. Only four hits are chalked against him, while Smith, a new find of Manager Kelly, permitted eight safe swata after he had dug his digits into the horschilds. Eckstone walked one man, while Smith signed his name to the passes of four of the Lawmakers, he, in addition to this, biffed one hard, and, as a compromise, the umpire allowed him to walk.

Eckstone Pitched Good Game.

Eckstone Pitched Good Game.

Eckstone Pitched Good Game.

Looking at the game from the standpoint of one who did not witness it, there is no reason why Richmond didn't win. She made the most hits, and her pitcher didn't walk any player; yet the bost of the bargain was a tie game.

Yet it took eleven innings to settle the affair. Eckstone was at the end of the game pitching a superb game, and Smith, for the Roanoke men, was effective, although he didn't appear to have anything to be affective with.
This was his long suit yesterday, for his underhand ball, which the players say doesn't curve at all, deceived all the batters. It makes no difference whether it bends or not, so long as a batter can't connect with it safely. The eight hits chalked against him came when hits didn't mean runs. Richmond couldn't touch the sphere when a hit would have won the game.

The game started with Brown for Roanoke at the bat, and he sent one to Cowan at first that killed him. Lanham fanned, and Watson got one over his head that Hinton got under.

Rose walked in the first; Reeve sailed

read that Hinton got under.
Rose walked in the first; Reeve sailed free to Hinton, and Hicks biffed a safe one to left, upon whilch he was thrown out at first on another play. Cowan got one to King Kelly and the inning was over. In the fourth inning Brown started

In the fourth ining Brown states, things to moving by getting one out to Jack Anthony. Lanham singled, pilfered second, and then committed petit larceny of the third sack. He scored on Watson's single.

Tied in the Eighth.

Tied in the Eighth.

It remained one to nothing against the Lawmakers until the eighth inning, when the fans were brought to their feet by a run brought in by Eddie Rose.

Eddie singled, and Roseve bunted and beat it out. Hicks sacrificed both runners, and Cowan sent a hot one to short and was thrown out at first, but Rose came over on the play. Anthony struck out.

Thus it was until the eleventh inning, and then it was too dark to play any more. The game was as pretty an exhibition as has been seen on the local diamond. Both teams played well, and an opportune hit at any stage of the game would have made the score different.

game would have made the score dif-ferent.
Cuddy figured in two doubles, and in the eleventh inning made a good play in trapping a fly ball and throwing Helns out at second and allowing Reeve to kill Workman at first.
Still will work to-day for the Law-makers, and Cassidy will be in the box for the visitors.

Danville Was Not in the Game

With Lynchburg Yesterday,

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LYNCHBURG, VA., Jine 1.—The game this afternoon between Lynchburg and Danville almost lacked every element of a contest, and it grew to be a farce before it ended, the locals winning out by the score of 13 to 0. The visitors were never in the same, while the locals hit McKenzie almost at will. The Tobacconists bunched all of their errors in the second, third and fifth innings, Reiss was steady, and the visitors did not reached third except in the fourth and sixth. Rickards, incensed at a decision by Umpirs Moore in the fourth inning, rushed at the umpire and would have assaulted him but for the interference of Holt and Wilson, of the locals, who literally dragged the player away from Moore. The special officer on duty took a hand, and, while he did not touch Rickreached. The player desisted. Rickards was fined 45 and ordered to the bench, but Most Progressive College.

William and Mary College is one of the progressive colleges of the State, and its attendance this year is the largest it ever had. Recently a science hall was built and equipped, and now a new library building is in sight. It will be fire-proof, and thus make absolutely safe the old records of the college going back to 1729, the original records of the Phi Beta Kappa Society beginning in 1766 the valuable portraits and the many other fine relics of the past preserved in the college building.

Mr. Batcheller is a wealthy merchant of New York, who has a large library and is fond of history and literature. He has traveled much and is fully imbued with patriotic love of country. His letter to President Tyler commends itself to Virginians for its generous sentiments and references. It is as follows.
